

The Workshop on Technologies for Future Micro/Nano Manufacturing was initiated by the Transducers Research Foundation as the first in a series of topical meetings with the goal of exploring emerging issues to North American Engineering Technological Communities. We have been fortunate that our first topic selection has generated exceptional interest among industrial, academic and government leaders. The report by the President's Executive Commission on Advanced Science and Technology (<http://www.whitehouse.gov/administration/eop/ostp/pcast/docsreports>) and the recent announcement by the Obama Administration of a new, $500M Initiative on Advanced Manufacturing earlier this month has amplified this interest (<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sfTY38Xg9bg>). Because of the increased attention being drawn to our workshop by these events, and the prospect for our meeting to impact the process and goals of the Initiative, we are interested in seeking high-profile sponsors. Through sponsorship, we seek to improve the quality of the meeting, accommodate special guests, and provide exceptional food and beverage (especially wine!) support - all with a goal of making the meeting successful and memorable for all attendees. Please work with us to find appropriate levels of support that meet the needs and interests of your organization.
